First Juror Selected For Sheppard Trial

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18 (AP)—The first degree murder trial of Dr. Samuel Sheppard got under way today with the selection of the first juror. The trial judge refused a defense plea to delay the case.

The intense atmosphere that has surrounded the July 4 slaying of Sheppard's blonde, pregnant wife was highlighted by the first two jury prospects called.

Both men admitted their minds were made up on the case — although they didn't say which way. Both were dismissed automatically.

But the third prospect, Howard L. Barrish, a dark, serious man of 28 with an 11th-grade education, withstood an exhaustive examination by the state and finally was accepted. Then the trial recessed overnight. Attorneys estimated it may take a week to select a jury.

Barrish is married, childless and a timekeeper in Cleveland's Republic Steel Corp. The defense questioned him minutely for more than an hour and a half.

The defense was denied further delay in the case and at the same time a separate plea for a change of venue—taking the trial to another county — was held in abeyance.

Sheppard, a handsome, athletic osteopath, is accused of bludgeoning his wife, Marilyn, to death after a romance with a pretty young medical technician, Susan Hayes. He has never been backtracked in his plea of innocent.

Trial Judge Edward Blythin denied a fervent defense plea for a postponement of the case "until all this furor dies down."

Defense Atty. Edward J. Corrigan took the setback with apparent good grace.

"We'll acquit the fellow," he told a reporter. "He'll acquit himself."

Corrigan, a small, white haired court veteran with a deceptive air of weariness about him, argued that widespread publicity has surrounded the case, prejudiced the Cleveland area and ruled out a fair and impartial trial.

"There has never been a case in this community," the 67-year-old lawyer declared, "or in the state of Ohio—and I doubt ever one in the United States—where a murder received the publicity this one received."

Judge Blythin conceded that the 31-year-old Marilyn's ugly death in her own bedroom more than three months ago aroused tremendous public interest. But he added, with a reference to American guarantees of press freedom:

"This court has never yet found any way in the world of quieting down publicity if newspapers and news media care to expound."

Judge Blythin agreed with the state that a postponement of weeks — or even months — wouldn't divert public attention from the drama of the osteopath's fight. Sheppard faces the electric chair if convicted of premeditated murder—unless the jury recommends mercy.

Boards Okay Jointure Of Four Districts

PORTLAND — A four-district school jointure was approved unanimously last night at a joint meeting of school directors from Portland, East Bangor, Upper Mt. Bethel Township and Washington Township.

It was voted to present the jointure agreement to the county school board for approval at its November meeting.

The agreement calls for construction of a 25-classroom junior-senior high school at an estimated cost of nearly one million dollars. The building, which would have facilities for 700 pupils, would be erected on a site to be selected later.

Attending last night's meeting were five directors each from Portland, Upper Mt. Bethel and Washington Townships and four from East Bangor.

Ike To Give Two Talks In New York City

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower, stepping up his speaking schedule in the last two weeks of the congressional campaign, will make two half-hour talks in New York Wednesday and Thursday. The White House billed them as "nonpartisan."

Originally the President had been expected to make only brief remarks when he attends Wednesday night ceremonies marking the 300th Anniversary of the founding of the Jewish faith in America, and a dinner Thursday night honoring the memory of Alfred E. Smith, New York State Democratic leader and 1928 presidential nominee.

But James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said today "The President has something to say which he can't cover in a few minutes." Hagerty did not announce the subjects of Eisenhower's speeches, but in response to questions he said "it could be" that the President would discuss foreign policy Wednesday.

Eisenhower is slated to leave Washington by plane early Wednesday, going first to Hartford, Conn., to accept an honorary degree from Trinity College and take part in a public celebration of the birthday of Gov. John Lodge of Connecticut, who is running for reelection on the Republican ticket.

On the administration level, he pointed to the added efficiency through one district with the same officers, the same school doctor, and better prices on greater quantity in supply. Having four elementary schools would make possible more balanced classes.

Better transportation, uniform attendance regulations, less duplication of effort were other points he mentioned.

Most stress, however, he placed on the value of long-range planning. A guaranteed student body, he pointed out, would make it possible to plan for 10 or 20 years ahead, instead of a year at a time. He added to that the advantages of a similar background for all children entering high school.

Groner ended by attempting to correct some misinformation which he had met. Union of school districts was in no wise an attempt to gobble up Stroud Township, he said. Stroud Township is a political entity and will remain that unless the people themselves petition for a change. Uniting school districts in no wise affects the township entity.

Another was a matter of representation. With one member of the board from each of the three districts, and four elected at large, there would be no lack of representation, he said, pointing out that at the present time South Stroudsbury was not represented on the Stroudsbury board, but that in no way affected the action of the board in working for all the children.

The financial picture was drawn in finer detail by the president of the Stroudsbury School Board, Herbert Crane.

"Stroud Township," he said "has gone just about as far as it is possible in borrowing from the state," pointing to the new addition on which the state holds a lien.

"The state won't participate in any large building program, such as a new secondary school, on the present evaluation or even on proposed re-evaluation."

Stroudsbury, on the other hand, he said is at an equal disadvantage. While its bonded indebtedness will be entirely cleared up by 1957 or before, Stroudsbury is not a growing district.

"The town is just on the edge of becoming a receding district," he said, with the population trend toward the outlying districts.

"The state will not participate in any long-range program for Stroudsbury without knowledge that there will be an expanding district."

"This we could not guarantee," he said. "There is no law says that any district has to send tuition pupils to us, or that we must accept them. Each district is responsible only for the education of its own children from grades 1 through 12."

"Thus, while there is serious doubt that there could be further state aid for either district alone, combined they could have a borrowing power of $400,000."

"Why do we pay so much attention to the state?" he asked himself, and cited figures showing that the state contributed nearly one third of the total revenues of all three districts.

Before calling for questions from the floor, Groner also asked himself a question: "If Stroudsbury's financial condition is so wonderful, why bother with union?"

His answer: "We don't want a small secondary school. We can now offer a program that we could not afford to offer if our high school population were under 300 or 400."

"How will taxes be equalized?" was asked.

"If the vote on union is favorable," Crane explained, "the union districts will come into existence on July 1, and from then on the school taxes will be uniform. At present Water Gap has a tax rate of 29 mills, Stroud Township of 30 mills, and Stroudsbury 33 mills. With increased state aid, the present proposed budgets of the three separate districts could be maintained by the lowest rate of 29 mills."

"Who would take over the school buildings and the debts on those buildings?"

"The union district, Crane explained, would assume responsibility for both buildings and debts."

"Do you anticipate new buildings?"

Pointing to the fact that Water Gap had been forced to send its sixth grade to Stroudsbury, that Stroudsbury had been unable to add Stroud Township's sixth grade because two six grade classes were already being held in basement classrooms, he said that there has to be an expansion of physical plants, with or without union.

Where those buildings might be he would not hazard a guess. That would depend on census of school population centers, he said.

"They will be put in a place where the majority of that board at that time thinks they're needed," he said.

"What about the trend for separate Junior and Senior High Schools?" was the next question.

Groner answered that one: National studies point out that separate junior and senior high schools are practical only if the community is large enough to insure at least 700 students in the junior high school and 700 to 850 in the senior high school. Otherwise, he explained, it is impossible to offer a complete program in either one.

Questions Relating To Taxes, New Buildings And Financing Raised At Open PTA Meeting

WHAT WILL HAPPEN to the taxes in each of the three districts if Stroud Township, Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsbury vote for union?

Who will own the school buildings and take over the school debts?

Do you anticipate new buildings? Where?

What are the possibilities of separate junior and senior high schools?

Would the pupils attending the Water Gap Schools have health education instructors?

How long would the union last and is there any chance that it would be split by disagreement about building sites?

These were the questions asked following the open meeting on school union sponsored by the Stroudsbury Parent-Teachers Association at the high school last night. Members of Stroud Township and Delaware Water Gap PTA's were among the 400 persons attending the meeting, arranged by Francis Shinn, program chairman.

The list of questions might have been much longer had not the speakers, Earl Groner, Stroudsbury superintendent of schools, and Herbert Crane, president of the Stroudsbury Board of Education covered the subject exhaustively beforehand.

Backing his own opinion that union would provide the best education for the children of all three districts, Groner cited the advice of the department of education based on many country-wide university studies; the unanimous decision of the three school boards concerned, arrived at after careful study of the whole problem; and the endorsement of that decision by the Stroudsbury PTA.

There are now 51 unions of school districts in Pennsylvania, Groner said, and no union has been dissolved because it was unsuccessful.

One committee headed by Herbert Crane considered the financial aspect; the other, composed of school administrators, studied the advantages and disadvantages in school administration, he said.

Financially, Groner said, the state department of education was so much in favor of union that the state would make it financially worthwhile for districts to unite, at the present time. In the future, they might make it mandatory, he warned.

On the administration level, he pointed to the added efficiency through one district with the same officers, the same school doctor, and better prices on greater quantity in supply. Having four elementary schools would make possible more balanced classes.

Better transportation, uniform attendance regulations, less duplication of effort were other points he mentioned.

More Bodies Lifted From Silt, Debris

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (AP)—The death toll from Ontario's disastrous hurricane mounted sharply today as rescue workers lifted more bodies from the silt and debris. The known dead reached 78, with 18 more still missing.

The toll was likely to go even higher as the recovery of bodies moved casualties from the missing to the dead column.

Within a few miles of Toronto's downtown shopping area, the Humber River drowned at least 57 persons in the western suburbs. The latest compilation showed 13 more missing in this area.

Hurricane Hazel, which churned up out of the Caribbean last week and cut across the North American continent from the Carolinas to Hudson Bay, took a known death toll of 177 in Canada and the United States. American fatalities were 99.

In the afternoon of the storm, worst in Toronto's history, 28 Canadians whose fate had been unknown since the torrential downpour and high winds struck Friday night were found to be safe.

Troops and civilians probed mud-filled cellars and the wreckage of flattened homes for more victims. The arrival of fair, cool weather favored the search, but recovery of the bodies continued to be a slow and heartbreaking undertaking.

Many relatives waited grim-faced to identify their dead at an emergency morgue set up in a fire station in Toronto's western suburbs, where the flooded Humber River wreaked the worst havoc.

While the lower Humber area was hardest hit, the damage extended as far north as the Holland Marsh, a rich market garden area 35 miles north of Toronto. There the waters of Lake Simcoe, under pressure by wind and rain, smashed a dike and drove 1,100 families from their homes. Most of the refugees were Dutch immigrants.

Total storm damage has been estimated as high as 100 million dollars. A government inspector said today three million dollars worth of crops in the area will be utterly destroyed if flood water is not drained off within 10 days.

Flood Crest Moves Down Ohio River

MARIETTA, Ohio, Oct. 18 (AP)—Flood water trickled into the streets of Marietta, Ohio, and Parkersburg, W.Va., today as the crest of the rain-blasted Ohio River continued its southerly course.

Its flood force apparently drying the river which chased thousands of persons from their homes upriver during the weekend caused little damage with its latest overflow.

Belple Chief of Police Earl W. Walker reported the crest reached 37.5 feet—about 1.5 feet above flood stage. But, he added, the water would have to hit a 40-foot level before anyone would be in danger there.

The river crested at 37.2 feet a little over a foot higher than flood stage — at Parkersburg, across from Belple and 45 miles downstream from Wheeling, W.Va. Several hours later it began falling.

Authorities in downstream towns did not foresee further hardships and damage such as the river dealt the Pittsburgh-Wheeling areas during the weekend.

20,000 Homes Without Power In Philly Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Operation Clean-up and Fix-up moved along slowly Monday in the hundreds of Pennsylvania towns where Hurricane Hazel unleashed its storm-packed fury.

Cooler weather across the Keystone State piled more discomfort on top of inconvenience for thousands of families still without electricity.

The Philadelphia Electric Co. said that 20,000 homes in the greater Philadelphia area had no electricity. Many thousands of homes were without telephone service.

Sixteen Philadelphia area schools, also without power, were closed today, giving students an unexpected holiday.

Hazel killed 20 persons as it swept northwestward through Pennsylvania last Friday. Today another person died—an indirect storm victim.

Daniel Smock, 25, of Newportville, Bucks County, was electrocuted by a 4,000-volt wire in Upper Dublin Twp. west of Ambler. Smock was climbing a utility pole to repair storm damage when he touched a metal crossbar which had been electrified. He fell 25 feet to the ground.

GOP Accepts Resignation Of Stringfellow

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Utah Republican Central Committee tonight accepted the resignation of Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow as candidate for re-election and started balloting to select his successor.

The 128-member committee was called to emergency session because of the handsome 32-year-old war veteran, paraplegic's confession Saturday that his tales of behind-the-German-lines operations in World War II were a hoax.

Republican State Chairman Oral J. Wilkinson called the 18-member committee into session after Stringfellow admitted his fraud and said he would leave his political future to his party's leaders.

He went a little further today, however, submitted his formal resignation as a candidate from Utah's 1st Congressional District, and urged that it be accepted.

He said he reached his decision "after long and serious thought" and without "pressure or duress."

He took complete responsibility for his story of wartime espionage. "No member of my staff," he said, "was at any time aware of the true story of my war record. The staff accepted my version completely, believing in me to the last. I and I alone bear complete responsibility for these fabrications."

A member of Stringfellow's staff said he is not resigning from Congress, noting that less than three months of his term remains. It would take that long, he noted, to wind up his affairs anyway.

Wilkinson, in asking Central Committee members to meet, urged them to sample public opinion in their home communities. He indicated the reaction to Stringfellow's dramatic confession might be the basis for the committee's decision.

Stringfellow, 32, disabled veteran of World War II, acknowledged Saturday night that the tales he told of an espionage mission behind German lines were fabricated. Actually he was wounded while removing a mine field in France. He said the idea of embellishing his war record came to him during the long months he spent in hospitals recuperating.

Curraceous Egyptian Girl Wins 'Miss World' Crown

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Brown-eyed Antigone Constanta, of Egypt—as full of curves as a scenic railway—tonight won the title of Miss World.

Beautiful Karin Hultman, of Rochester, N. Y., a model, came second.

"Gosh," said Karin, "I'm jinxed. I'm always second."

She was second in a Miss U.S.A. contest in California earlier this year.

She was the first to congratulate the gorgeous girl from Alexandria. And she did it with a big kiss on her right cheek.

Miss Egypt could hardly be called Little Egypt, for she weighs 132 pounds, her height is 5 feet 5 inches, her bust 36 inches and her hips, which she swung to the whistling delight of the Lyceum Theater audience, measure 36 inches also.

Her bathing suit was made of gold cloth and so thin that had Miss Egypt stooped to pick up a

John S. Dailey, Native Here, Killed When Trucks Collide

JOHN S. DAILEY, 52, a native of Stroudsburg who had lived here most of his life, was killed yesterday in a two-truck accident near Quakertown.

Dailey was driving a laundry-delivery truck south on Route 309, police said. He apparently tried to make a right turn off the highway.

As his truck slowed, it was struck from the rear by another, larger truck driven by Harry S. Kulp, of Quakertown. The delivery truck skidded, overturned.

Dailey was thrown from the cab and pinned under the truck, police said. He was pronounced dead at the accident scene. The body was taken to Allentown Hospital. An autopsy was performed by coroner Clayton Werley.

Dailey was born in Stroudsburg and had lived here the first 34 years of his life. He then moved to the Palmerton area where he lived for a number of years and held membership in First Episcopal Church, the American Legion Post and the Elks Lodge 1284 in Lehighton.

He served in the U. S. Army during World War Two; was stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C. He had been living in Allentown the past year where he was employed by the B. E. Schreiter laundry company as a delivery man.

His Allentown address was 427 N. Sixth St. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Viola Heffer, Stroudsburg RD1 and Mrs. Janet Marsh, Stroudsburg; one brother, Robert Dailey, Scranton; a number of nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at Lantierman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, with Rev. George McKinley officiating. Interment will be made in Laurelwood cemetery, Stroudsburg. Friends may call Thursday from 7 to 9 p. m. at the funeral home.

Patient Public

Highway improvements are valuable in every instance. In fact, too often people are prone to lack full appreciation of their worth, especially during a construction period when things are torn up and some inconvenience is bound to occur.

There are other times, however, when that noble virtue known as patience can be strained and warped a bit.

Take the project involving reconstruction of Broad St. and the Fifth St. bridge. Both the Stroudsburg Fire Department officials and Borough Council have made representations with the idea of getting some arrangement whereby fire department equipment and the general public can have adequate crossings across Broad St.

The project is wholly a State Highway Department affair with a contractor serving the department under normal bidding procedure to make this improvement.

To date there has been no adequate provision to ingress and egress to a large residential section of South Stroudsburg.

The time has come for some prompt action to provide for adequate crossings on Broad St., not only for fire protection, but for the convenience of the traveling public.

Coffee Conspiracy

Some of the country's big coffee dealers have been accused of illegal trade practices by the Federal Trade Commission.

The Commission has filed a formal complaint against the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, four of its officers, eight members and the affiliated New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Assn.

The gist of the FTC charges is that these people rigged the deal to increase coffee prices beyond the normal limits of the law of supply and demand. The FTC complaint follows a long investigation of last spring's sudden rises in the consumer price of coffee.

Next step is a public hearing, at which the accused will have an opportunity to refute the charges. If they ultimately are found guilty, the coffee people will be ordered to "cease and desist."

Throwback In Orval Faubus's Career Makes Unique Political Situation In Arkansas

During the days of the Okies and Arkies and similar fomentations of social disorder, a curriculum of the Eastern part of Arkansas.

"Q. Do you believe in the Constitution of the United States?"

"A. I answered that question."

"Q. Do you respect the American flag?"

"A. I refuse to answer because I consider it as having no bearing on the investigation. I refuse to answer without advice of counsel."

"Q. Do you believe in Capitalism?"

"A. I do not believe in Capitalism, as it is now operated."

"Q. Do you own any property individually, and do you believe in the individual ownership of property?"

"A. I own very little property individually. I believe that the time has come when there must be more collective ownership of property for our civilization to be preserved and future developed."

"Q. And who would be the collective individuals owning the property?"

"A. The people."

I think I have given enough quotations to indicate the intellectual and spiritual qualities of the director of Commonwealth College at Mena, Arkansas. The subjects taught at this college were few and some of them dubious such as current events and orientation course, Fascism and social revolution, creative writing. Among the teachers was Mildred Price, who took the Fifth Amendment in the Institute of Pacific Relations investigation under the McCarran Committee.

At Commonwealth the teachers were not paid salaries. They got room, board, laundry and, as Mildred Price testified, about $150 a month for miscellaneous.

The reason for bringing up Commonwealth College at this time is that Orval Faubus is running for Governor of Arkansas on the Democratic ticket. Faubus stands a good chance of being elected. Orval Faubus was a student at Commonwealth College about the time that the joint committee of the Arkansas Legislature was making its investigation.

The "Commonwealth College Fight" in its issue for May Day 1935, under the title, "United Front in Student Elections," reports that Orval Faubus was elected president of the Student Body and a member of the Disciplinary Committee. Faubus then was a prominent student at Commonwealth College about three months after the legislative investigation started.

It is reported in the same "Commonwealth College Fight" for June 1, 1935, that three students and one teacher were sent to Chattanooga, Tennessee, to attend the All-Southern Conference for Civil and Trade Union Rights, a Communist front. One of them was Faubus.

This throwback to Orval Faubus's early career is apparently creating a political situation in Arkansas.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

In Defense Of The Bird Dog

What's so terrible about a bird dog? Targets in any political campaign with both sides grabbing for anything out of which they can get votes are many, but it seems to us that the bird dogs of the country must be flabbergasted by finding themselves mixed up in a fight for public office. We are a bird dog fancier and every bird dog we have seen in the past few days seems a little stunned and groggy by folks who say that any reference to him in the same breath with a reference to mankind is unfair to human beings. We have had many a bird dog, boy and man, and never knew one whose qualities weren't so wonderful that we would have taken any comparison with them as rather flattering, taking one consideration with another.

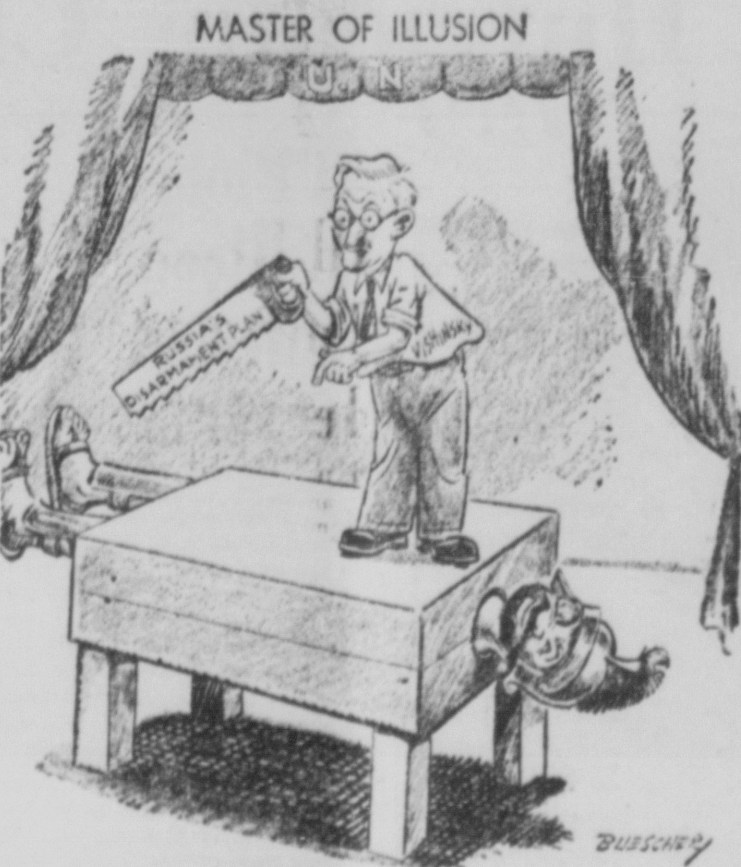

A bird dog is something extra special among living creatures, human or animal, mineral or vegetable, rich or poor, working-man or laborer. His devotion is out of this world. He has poise beyond that shown by most men. Anybody who has worked with him in the open fields knows that he possesses patience such as is rare in many human beings. He has brains and understanding or he couldn't be a bird dog. There is nothing of the smooth politician about him. He doesn't bark and won't bite even the fallen bird, bringing it in tenderly and with seeming compassion. There is nothing of the demagogue or the main chance seeker about a bird dog and he doesn't switch his affections or leap for whatever in the dog world constitutes a headline. The setter, pointer, or retriever that would take a mean advantage, do anybody dirt, or misinterpret rarely exists.

We can't imagine a bird dog, even if he had the ability, hunting through somebody's remarks for a chance to spring upon an unhappy phrase and make a villain of him. We can't see one rubbing its paws and thinking, "Boy, can we murder that guy for this!" There is something in the eyes of a bird dog that we don't see in the eyes of most platform orators, ward workers, party chairmen, and hell-bent-for-votes men and women.

We had a talk with a bird dog yesterday. "What's all this row and indignation over mentioning me?" he asked, obviously hurt. "Why should I find myself in politics? I can't dig how I should get into all this campaign oratory. I thought even Walter Reuther liked me. I thought what Charlie Wilson said about me was pretty nice. Poets, authors and song writers have said the same thing for centuries. Painters have expressed a similar respect for me. I'll admit Charlie's words were subject to misinterpretation and could be twisted out of their meaning. But are people really so insulted by any comparison with me, my character, my way of life and my performance in general?" We told him we thought not. He cheered him up more than anything except a note of condolence from Lassie.

So many scandals over leaks in high government agencies are busting out all over that "Know any top secrets?" is becoming a routine question in many conversations. Judy Holiday's new movie is called "Phft!" and we

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Art Of Conversation Is Gone, But Not Talking

On his recent return from Europe, after a five-week visit, Representative Mendel Rivers (D) of South Carolina said to newspaper reporters:

"We have talked too damn much. The time now is for action."

Then he went on to say how we should stop dillydallying with England and France and make an "immediate unilateral deal" with Germany.

All of which would, of course, require a whole lot of additional talking without any assurance that such a deal could really be made.

On the same ship, the United States, was Joseph P. Kennedy, former American ambassador to Great Britain.

He later had something to say to reporters—and he had spent three months in Europe, not counting all the previous years of experience over there.

"Our greatest problem is," he said, "to stop telling people in Europe and the Far East how to do things and let them work out their own plans."

Yes, we are great folks for talking too much and for telling other people what to do.

A couple of weeks ago I had a little cold. Every time I sneezed in the presence of somebody I knew—or of some casual stranger who happened to be nearby—I was told just exactly what to do for my sneeze and what was good for colds in general.

Needless to say, none of the advisers was a physician and it is well known that there is as yet no cure for colds.

But to hear a fellow sneeze and not to tell him what to do is simply not the American way.

The art of conversation has practically disappeared from the American scene. But the habit of talking certainly has not.

There is an old saying that you all know: "Talk is Cheap." That is undoubtedly why there is so much of it. I wonder how much talking there would be if the government levied a tax on words, say a penny a word.

Perhaps some ingenious inventor could think up some kind of an attachment to a politician's mouth that would measure his words and make him pay for them.

The same idea could also be applied to all the amateur doctors, lawyers, engineers and particularly to the gossips who so love to spread rumors.

Now that the do-it-yourself craze is in full bloom, talking will be even more popular than it has been heretofore. Every Tom, Dick and Harry, or whatever your friend's name may be, will tell you HOW to do it yourself.

Then if you follow his advice and cut your finger, or perhaps a slice off your nose, your friend, or perhaps his wife, will certainly be glad to play doctor and tell you just what to do about your wound.

If that doesn't do any good, I am sure that some other friend, or maybe the same one, will instruct you just how to sue the company that sold you the equipment, and he will even recommend a good lawyer to you. I have always liked Audrey Meadows' immortal remark when Jack Gleason talked too much in the television show "The Honeymooners":

"Ah, shut up!"

Fred Allen's comment concerning Mons. Benny's talent as a violin virtuoso is, "Jackie, the only fiddler who makes you feel the strings would sound better back in the cat."

Another noted fiddler, Sol Violinsky, claims it's so long since his last engagement, he's going to call his memoirs "Laying Off Under Four Presidents." One evening Violinsky met humorist Arthur "Bugs" Baer on Broadway.

"Can't stop to bandy words with you now," said the Bug. "This is my bridge night." "I'll come with you," decided Sol. "We'll jump together."

Nobody can dispute Station WOR-TV's assertion that its talent is the highest paid in New York. WOR's payroll is handed on the eighty-third floor of the Empire State Building.

Robert S. Allen Reports

U. S. Trade With Soviets Most Active Since 1947

Washington, October 19—U. S. trade with Russia and its satellites is now more active than at any time since 1947.

That's what Commerce Secretary Sinclair has told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a detailed report. Main highlights of his unpublished statement are as follows:

In the first half of this year the Commerce Department authorized the shipment of $7,108,000 in goods to the Soviet empire in Europe. In the same period in 1953, the amount was $484,000.

During these six months, applications for export licenses to the Soviet bloc soared to $46,615,000. This contrasts spectacularly with $300,000 for the first half of last year.

In 1947, American trade with Russia and its satellites reached a record high of $340,000,000. At the same time, imports from these Red countries totaled $108,242,000.

So far this year, these imports have declined to $19,613,000 as against $20,415,000 in the first six months of 1953.

Weeks attributes the big increase in exports to the relaxing of the embargo controls that were imposed at the outbreak of the Korean war.

This revision, announced by the Commerce Department on August 26, slashed the number of embargoed items from 1,450 to 787. Chief among those eliminated were machine tools, farm machinery, motor vehicles, rubber tires, chemicals, steel and petroleum products, medicinals, and scientific and professional instruments.

These changes do not apply to Red China and North Korea. U. S. bans against them remain intact.

American shipments to the Soviet bloc now are chiefly fats, oils, hides and cigarettes. Communist imports to this country are largely foodstuffs, particularly from Poland, fur from Russia, and photographic supplies from East Germany.

The Details — Secretary Weeks estimates that exports to the Soviet bloc will show an increase in the last half of this year.

He bases this view on the "higher dollar volume of export applications acted upon by the Commerce Department in the past three quarters... It is U. S. policy generally to approve the export of non-strategic goods to Russia and its European satellites, except where a particular transaction is viewed as having an adverse impact upon the security interests of the free world."

While the sweeping embargo revision opened a wide field for Red purchases, Weeks reports they have been limited so far to a "relatively narrow pattern."

He attributes this to two factors: "The inability or disinclination of the Soviet bloc to provide desired goods in exchange for American goods... and American exporters in general have hitherto not actively pursued Soviet trade, although the Commerce Department has noted an increase in the number of business inquiries and export applications."

"Notwithstanding the increased potential and applications for U. S. exports of peaceful goods," Weeks declares, "the Department does not anticipate that actual U. S. shipments to the European Soviet bloc will increase to anything close to the pre-Korean levels for some time to come..."

The following commodity distribution of export applications that were approved in the second quarter of 1954 is typical of the current patterns:

"Rumania — pork fatbacks, $733,448; inedible tallow, $62,709; cottonseed oil, $324,000; Russia — coal tar acid, $187,560; wet skins and hides, $360,000; $187,900; belting leather, $100,000; Poland — wet skins and hides, $103,450; tobacco including cigarettes, $79,200; Hungary — inedible tallow, $631,774; wet skins and hides, $272,082; Czechoslovakia — tobacco, $24,884; drugs, $5,398; clothing, $62,674; East Germany — tobacco, $50,142."

Prior Planning — Secretary of State Dulles believes in preparing for any eventuality where the all-powerful Senate is concerned.

While he fervently hopes for a Republican victory in the bitter congressional election battle, he is privately maneuvering for a friendly chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should the worst happen and the Democrats win.

Dulles' choice is Georgia's veteran Senator Walter George.

He is the senior Democrat on both the Foreign Relations Committee and the equally potent Finance Committee, which has jurisdiction over all tax legislation. That gives George a choice between two prize chairmanships in the event the Democrats take over.

Immigration to the United States reached its peak between 1905 and 1914.

Sheffield, England, has long been noted for its cutlery manufacture.

Egg Market Price Study Is Needed

—by H. G. Heller

Local egg producers have been watching with more than ordinary interest the possibility of federal price supports. But only a day or so ago the egg industry advisory committee reaffirmed its stand against any sort of government price supports in a report to the U. S. Agriculture Department.

Basically, the advisory committee agreed that prices are the greatest single factor regulating supply and demand. It was this factor that caused 1954 production increases and price decline, the committee held.

Locally, however, there is more and more interest in a novel price situation in the big nearby markets which dominate the price situation local producers receive.

They report an interesting situation. Careful studies of flow of eggs and prices center on the New York market which local dealers say must dominate the eastern egg price situation.

New York, they report, usually gives about four cents less to producers than Boston. At times Boston gives as much as ten cents more to producers.

The Philadelphia and Bethlehem Markets follow the New York pattern, generally, but there are occasions, local producers say, when Bethlehem takes advantage of this price differential.

Eggs from the Bethlehem market are shipped to Boston where—despite the proximity to the powerful New York market—the price ranges higher by three or four cents, and sometimes ten cents.

The egg industry has the advantage of relatively short cycles of production correction, compared with other agriculture enterprises.

Local producers know all about this. What they can't understand is the difference in price on the New York market from Boston—even without any unusual dumping of eggs on the market.

There is considerable discussion in producers circles of asking for a study of the New York Market by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, or even the Federal Trade Commission.

What the producers obviously have fresh in their minds is the investigation conducted of the coffee market and some of the answers found there.

When any industry turns down government price support and they have an industry problem involving marketing, it would seem to be a very important matter that federal agencies assist them in finding the answers they seek.

Talks Highlight Saar Dispute, Expected French Move To Impose Controls On Reich

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Beginning today with Franco-German negotiations on the Saar, this will be a snowballing diplomatic week in Paris.

Next will come four-power discussions on the forms of sovereignty to be granted West Germany, nine-power drafting of an extended Brussels pact to include Germany and Italy, and then a meeting of the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization to plan for admission of Germany.

Of the many problems facing the diplomats, two were outstanding.

At the head of the list, as it is first on the agenda of the talks, is the Saar. Then comes an anticipated move by France to impose controls on German arms over and above those already agreed upon in principle at the London conference. The controls problem was expected to run through all the talks.

The Saar matter, however, was expected to be handled by Germany and France outside the more general discussions. France has always insisted that it must be settled to her satisfaction before she can enter into any formal alignment with Germany for the defense of Europe.

They had practically agreed to "Europeanization" of the Saar under the supranational council which would have governed the European Coal and Steel Community had the latter been ratified. The plan died with EDC.

The Saar's coal economy is tied closely to that of France, and particularly to the iron mines of Lorraine. France takes most of the area's products.

The two economies were formally integrated after the war, although the Saar is German-speaking and once voted, after World War I, to be attached to Germany.

The French will agree to no arrangement which interferes with this economic integration, since it gives her parity with Germany in production of the chief sinew of war, and therefore an equal voice in the Coal and Steel Community. The West German government does not feel it can cede German territory, no matter how important the broader objectives, both for political reasons and because it cannot establish a precedent of cession while demanding return of the Oder-Neisse territories taken by Russia and awarded to Poland after the war.

It is very doubtful if these interests can be compromised in a day or a week to permit a complete settlement before the new defense treaties are drafted. France now is proposing that the territory be made a political adjunct of the new Western European Union as the Brussels pact is now known.

Germany wants an agreement to let things rock along until, in her new sovereignty, she is in position to negotiate a full peace treaty.

An agreement on procedure, if not on the full substance of the dispute, must be reached this week unless the problem is to threaten the whole new defense program.

Arthur Frey Heads Wayne Student Group

NEWFOUNDLAND — Presidency of the Wayne County Student Council Association has been assumed by Arthur Frey, Greene-Dreher-Sterling High School senior. He was elected at the group's annual Fall banquet and meeting at Hawley.

Frey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frey, South Sterling, has been active in student government at the local school and has represented the school and community in many activities on the state and national level.

He was one of two "senators" from Pennsylvania at the 1954 Boys' Nation, an American Legion sponsored activity, held in Washington, D. C. this summer. He was also a member of the national Future Farmers of America band at Kansas City in 1953 and has participated in the state FFH band two years. He is active in athletics and dramatics at the local school.

Named as secretary of the association was Joan Blank, Greentown, another GDS student. Maurice Meagher, Honesdale, is treasurer. W. W. Wilder, Greene-Dreher-Sterling faculty member is adviser.

Member schools are Damacus, Lake Ariel, Hawley, Honesdale and Greene-Dreher-Sterling.

Dr. F. T. Munson will be out of town Oct. 19-20-21-22.—Adv.

Now! Gulf takes out the cupful of trouble in every gallon

...to bring you the new Super-Refined No-Nox Gasoline that gives more power-with-protection than you've ever known.

1 Gulf takes out the cupful of trouble. Ordinary gasoline (left) contains a "dirty-burning tail-end" that forms trouble-making deposits. Gulf takes out this carbon forming "dirty-

Violet Clark Soroptimist Con. Speaker

The local Soroptimist Club's big task as co-hostess at the Fall conference of the North Atlantic Region of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs was discussed at the October meeting held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Lulu Harvey, West Main St., Stroudsburg.

The conference will be held at Pocono Manor Inn, October 29, 30 and 31. Mrs. Pluma Batten, president of the American Federation, will be the guest of honor. Mrs. Batten was a guest at the charter dinner of the local club in 1952.

The Monroe County chapter will sponsor a Halloween party for the delegates on Friday night, October 29, at which one of their members, Miss Violet Clark, of East Stroudsburg, will give a talk on masks and show how they are made. Local members will model masks of famous people.

Mrs. Jean Barthold, president; Mrs. Lulu Harvey, vice president; and Miss Margaret MacLaren, corresponding secretary, will be official delegates to the conference.

Mrs. Marguerite Clarkson, past president of the local group, will be chairman of the Saturday noon fellowship luncheon.

Also assisting in convention activities will be Mrs. Florence Clark, Mrs. Stella Shade, Mrs. Marjorie Hamblin, Mrs. Ida Kunkle, Miss Violet Clark, Mrs. Violet H. Price, Dr. Nina M. Price, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Mrs. Lillian Wagner, Mrs. Alice Saunders and Mrs. Helen Minnich.

In addition to convention plans, the club had reports of the recent rummage sale given by Mrs. Lulu Harvey, chairman of ways and means. Proceeds from the rummage sale will be used for the club's nurse scholarship fund.

Local Soroptimists are invited to attend the Founder's Day dinner at the Hotel Bethlehem on Wednesday, October 20, sponsored by the Bethlehem Club.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harvey.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's been exciting, traveling through East Stroudsburg these last few nights. With many of the street lights still out because of the hurricane, the streets stretch out dim and mysterious. The stop lights shine with an unearthly light, and the lighted windows of the homes seem even colder in contrast to the blackness of the streets.

And some householders helped the traveler along by leaving their porch lights on to give them a star to steer by. Speaking of stars, I think maybe the women who gave in yesterday's Blood Donor Day have added a few extra ones to their crowns.

There were a lot of "first-time" donors, which is a help to the whole program, and while they didn't quite attain their goal, they did mighty well. And I hope their courage goes along with the pint of blood.

That dripping you heard in the night wasn't blood, but it might well have been judging by the sinking feeling it gave the householder who realized that was the rain seeping through the yet un-mended holes in the roof. There's apt to be a lot of faded Christmas tree decorations if that box was under the leak.

Well, judging by the calendar today, nobody's going to have time to check up. Such a business.

Fall Wedding Is Held At Stone Church

Bangor — Miss Lorraine Elizabeth Heinsohn, of Bangor RD2, and David Franklin Laurer, of Newton, N. J., were married on October 16 at 2 p.m. in Christ Lutheran Church, Stone Church. Rev. John Eberly performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, fashioned with a mandarin collar embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. The bodice was molded and had long sleeves. The bouffant tulle skirt was panned in front with pleated tulle. The back was of cascading tulle ruffles trimmed with lace and ended in a cathedral length train. Her fingertip veil was of imported silk illusion and was held by a half cap of lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and Stephanotis.

Miss Emma Heinsohn was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a gown of coronation red taffeta with a matching headpiece and gloves trimmed with sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of red and white pompons.

Frances Weidman of Bangor RD2 and Marlene Mach of Bangor RD3 were bridesmaids and similarly attired in gowns of royal blue taffeta. They carried blue and white pompons. The junior bridesmaids: Miss Frances Heinsohn and Miss Lillian Heinsohn, both sisters of the bride, also wore similar outfits of royal blue.

Karen Laurer of Blairstown, N. J., a niece of the bridegroom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laurer, was flower girl. She wore a three-tiered bouffant dress of yellow taffeta with a matching headpiece and gloves. She carried a basket of yellow and white pompons.

Donald Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jones, of Bangor, was ring-bearer.

Melvin Dean of Blairstown, was best man. John Laurer, of Newton, N. J., and Herman Laurer of Blairstown, both brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The church was decorated with palms, gladiolus and asters. Richard Matlock was organist and Irene Horn was soloist.

After a reception at the Bellevue Firehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Laurer left for a wedding tour of New York State and Niagara Falls. When they return they will make their home with the bridegroom's parents.

The bride was graduated from Bangor High School and prior to her marriage was employed by Leonard Sabatino of Sand's Eddy. The bridegroom attended Blairstown High School and is engaged in farming with his father.

Garden Club To Hear Talk By Harmon

At the meeting of the Monroe County Garden Club on Thursday afternoon at 2:15 at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, the guest speaker will be Russell Harmon, Mr. Harmon, vice president and general manager of La-Bar's Rhododendron Nursery, will speak on "Gardening by Telephone".

In it he will tell of some of the unusual and interesting experiences he has encountered on the telephone.

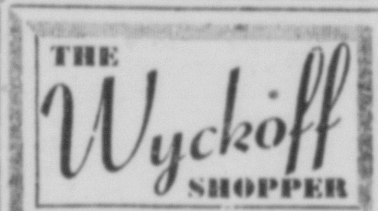

At the last Garden Club board meeting, one new member was voted into full membership: Mrs. Edward Rahn, of 798 Bryant St., who was sponsored by Mrs. Francis Grover.

At the business meeting, the report of the nominating committee will be given. The bulletin board will include an autumn summary of garden news.

Stephen Haney Honored On Second Birthday

Sciota — Stephen Haney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Haney of Sciota celebrated his second birthday on October 14. He received many gifts including a circus birthday cake.

Among the people who called at his home to wish him a happy birthday were: his paternal grandparents, Mrs. Blanche Trexler of Allentown; Mrs. Mabel Hoodmaker of Macqueine; his paternal great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Haney of Sciota; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Feller, of Sciota; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Courtright Sr. and sons, Herbert and Robert. Also present was Stephen's brother, Bradley.

"Oh, my golly, I wish I could be a little girl again." Betty Franz giggled yesterday as she cuddled a big doll in her arms and wrinkled up her nose in little girl fashion. "They never had anything like this when I was growing up."

On looking back to the big walking doll in my closet, and the beautiful, black-haired Dorothy with her sweet face and real, pearly teeth, I am sure that dolls were always quite remarkable. Still I understand Betty's point of view. Dolls do gain in charm as we grow older . . . but not just because their manufacturers are doing such a terrific job. Partly they are gilded by the fact that, as we grow older, we look back with yearning and affection upon all things that represent the Never Never Land of being delightfully, irresponsibly young.

"If I were a child, I'd never be able to choose just one out of all this display. Could you?" Betty asked. And I said no. I was sure I couldn't. Perhaps I'd be tempted to demand the big wide-eyed child modeled after a real little girl who stands tall and sells at $39.95. What a lovely thing she is, with her arms that run in all directions . . . her adorable curly head that moves from side to side as she walks . . . her frilly dress of satin and net . . . her rosybud mouth and wide eyes . . . her flawless complexion and the tapered rubber fingers that are so human to the touch.

"That's the kind of doll a small child loves," Elsie Miller told me when this lovely toy first arrived. "I've noticed that the older most girls become, the more they desire the small, infant dolls that look and feel so much like a real baby. But a small child is still thrilled and impressed by a doll that stands tall and walks."

Well, that's quite normal, isn't it? At the age when a little girl is learning to button and unbutton her own clothes, she enjoys dressing and undressing her dolls. When she is old enough to begin dreaming of the future, she thinks in terms of home . . . and babies. At that stage, she likes Tiny Tears—the baby that will bubble, weep, and otherwise act human. This particular doll is available with or without hair this year in a wide range of prices. Ricky Jr., of "I Love Lucy" fame, has hair now too, and has become a good size—a manly, romped little fellow who will cost in the neighborhood of $10.98 and $15.98, according to his height.

If it's a bride doll that fills your heart with yearning, she is here too, under the label of both Horsman and American Character Dolls, and she is all yours, in her shimmering satin and lace, at $10.98 . . . $16.98 . . . or $19.98, depending upon your taste. Most of these fine dolls have hair of Saran, that can be washed, combed, brushed, and curled.

Many of our loveliest lovelies are on display right now behind the plate glass at our front entrance. No wonder every little girl is sighing, "How much is that dollie in the window?"

Stroudsburg Junior Varsity Gridders Blank Bangor

Mountaineers Win First Game, 24-0

STROUDSBURG High School's junior varsity football squad broke a two-game losing streak at Gordon Giffels Field yesterday with a convincing 24-0 victory over the Bangor yearlings.

The win was the first of the season for the Mountaineers, while Bangor now sports a record of one favorable decision and three of the unfavorable variety.

Stroudsburg, coached by George Metropoulos, went in front bright and early in the first period and held the upper hand throughout the ball game.

The first touchdown credited to the home squad came about on a 20-yard run by Portland's Ronald Stopp.

Jack Darr displayed a bit of alert football when he scooped up a teammate's fumble and raced into paydirt later in the opening period. Harry Miller ripped off 14 yards, but fumbled when tackled. Darr grabbed the ball and ran 10 more yards to give Stroudsburg a 12-0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Mountaineers made it 18-0 at halftime when Harry Miller circled his own right end for six yards and a touchdown.

Bob Kassay powered his way into touchdown territory in the final period from the three-yard line after a pass play had set up the score.

Two passes and as many running plays failed to add extra points after any of the Stroudsburg touchdowns.

Metropoulos used every player on his bench and the home team kept Bangor from making a serious scoring threat during the course of the ball game.

Kassay was only one of many outstanding Stroudsburg stars, as he looked particularly good on pass defense.

Carter's Pilot, Second Barred

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Gerald Dreyer of South Africa stopped Ramon Tiscareno of Los Angeles at the end of the first round of their scheduled 10-round fight at St. Nicholas Arena tonight after flooring his rival for the third time.

The fight went to Dreyer automatically under the New York State Athletic Commission's three-knockdown rule. Dreyer weighed 149½, Tiscareno 145½ pounds.

The end came just as the bell was about to sound ending the first round and Tiscareno hit the canvas for the third time as a result of three well placed rights to the jaw. As the West Coast fighter went down, the bell sounded.

The sudden end brought considerable confusion. Referee Petey Scalzo immediately awarded the fight to Dreyer on the three-knockdown rule. Commission Chairman Bob Christenberry stopped to the ringside, conferred with Scalzo, and then said it was the correct decision.

Adding to the confusion, Scalzo walked to his corner after conferring with the commissioner and made no move to fill out his card, which would have indicated the end of the scrap.

In the meantime Ted Benton, Dreyer's second, had removed his fighter's gloves. Scalzo walked to Dreyer's corner and said: "I think you'll have to continue." Dreyer's manager, Willie Ketchum, began screaming at Scalzo and ran around the ring trying to find Christenberry for an appeal.

Immediately after the fight Christenberry suspended Ketchum and Benton for removing Dreyer's right glove and ordered them both to appear at a hearing Friday.

Ketchum is manager of Jimmy Carter, former lightweight titleholder, now in training at Harry's Farm, Columbia, N. J. Benton is also Carter's second.

Pocono Mountains League Sets Banquet Date

READERS — Representatives of the Pocono Mountains Baseball League set the date for their annual banquet during a regular monthly meeting held here at Readers Inn last night.

The group decided to hold the banquet on Saturday, November 20, at a place to be decided on Thursday night at a special meeting of the league committee.

Harry Janson, first vice president of the circuit, was named chairman of the banquet committee which also contains Lloyd

Eastburg Junior High Wins

Frenchtown Yearlings Gain Verdict Over Pope Pius High

FRENCHTOWN, N. J. — Pope Pius X High School went down to its third straight football defeat of the current season yesterday when the charges of Coach Joe Villano fell before the Frenchtown High junior varsity, 29-14.

The home team was the master from start to finish after scoring nine points in the opening quarter. Anthony Renaldo had the honor of scoring the first touchdown of the season for the Roseto contingent when he went through the middle of the Frenchtown line for five yards and a touchdown. He also ran for the first extra point of the season for Pope Pius on the next play.

Mike Capanigro scored Pope Pius' second and final touchdown on the receiving end of a pass from Al DeFranco in the last quarter. The play covered 80 yards. DeFranco added the extra point on an end run.

Frenchtown jumped off in the lead when Frank Dillingham ran 70 yards for a touchdown in the first period and the home team added a safety when Howard Schaeble tackled Paul Schork in the endzone.

Don Punne, who added the extra point on a plunge in the first period, ran for 60 yards and a touchdown in the second quarter and also plunged for the extra point. In the third period Tom Rodenbach traveled for 40 yards and the touchdown.

Punne came back to tally the final touchdown on a 20-yard gallop in the last period. Jack Albano crossed the extra point after the final touchdown on a pass from Punne.

Pope Pius High swings back into action on Sunday afternoon, October 24, with Phillipsburg Parochial supplying the opposition at Bangor Memorial Park.

Arkansas, number 12 last week, zoomed to the number seven spot after rocking Texas 20-7 to take over the lead in the Southwest Conference. Minnesota, a returning football power, headed the second 10 a week ago, and jumped to number eight after defeating Illinois 19-6.

The biggest advance was by Army, which ranked number 18 last week but went to number five by shooing Duke 28-14. This dropped Duke from sixth place a week ago to number 19. West Virginia rounds out the top 10, moving up from number 14 last week.

Steelers, Eagles May Set Record

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18 (AP)—The largest crowd in local pro gridiron history may watch Saturday night's game between the Philadelphia Eagles and the surprising Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

The Steelers' front office announced tonight all available tickets, some 33,000, have been sold. Police had to be called out today as fans stood in line at the club's midtown office.

Pitt Player Suspended

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18 (AP)—Tom Hamilton, Pittsburgh's athletic director and interim football coach, today indefinitely suspended from the team halfback Lou Cimaroli of Bridgeville.

Clint Gatz, president of the circuit, presided over the meeting. There will be no meeting in November, as the banquet date serves as the meeting night.

A spaghetti dinner was served to all those attending the meeting by the management of Reeders Inn.

Peacock Earns Verdict

SYDNEY, Oct. 18 (AP)—Billy Peacock, Philadelphia heavyweight, beat Belgian Pierre Cosenswyn on points over 12 rounds at Sydney stadium tonight. Both fighters weighed in at 118½.

Parkland Defeats Cavaliers

Ruth Inflicts Damage In Final Period

ALLENTOWN — Parkland High, taking part in its initial football campaign, rallied for two touchdowns in the final period to earn a 14-6 victory over East Stroudsburg High School's junior varsity here at Muhlenberg Field yesterday.

East Stroudsburg scored in the first period and held the upper hand throughout the first half and through the third period, before the home team rose up to make certain of victory in the fading moments of the ball game.

Helmut Gartner broke the scoreless deadlock in the first period when he raced 40-yards on a quick opening play for the visiting charges of Coach Del Davis. Dick Shaffer attempted to run for the extra point but was tackled short of the goal.

Dick Ruth, dividing his time between quarterback and halfback, sparked Parkland to victory with a brilliant display of offensive football in the last quarter.

The Parkland star reeled off two long runs of 40 yards and then went off tackle for 20 and 10 yards on a pair of touchdowns dashes. He kicked one extra point and ran for another.

East Stroudsburg now has suffered at the hands of Pen Argyl, Bangor, Lehigh and Parkland.

The Cavaliers play host to the Wilson Borough yearlings next Monday, at 4 p.m., at Memorial Stadium.

Pocono Protects Soccer Mark With Victory Over Polk, 4-1

KRESGEVILLE—Pocono High rolled to its third straight triumph without a defeat in the Monroe County League soccer wars yesterday by inflicting a 4-1 reversal on Polk, the second contingent.

The loss was the third for Polk without a favorable decision and the second to yesterday's visiting team.

Pocono scored two goals in the second period to break a scoreless deadlock and hold a 2-0 lead at the halfway mark.

The visiting team scored once more in each of the third and fourth rounds.

Polk averted a shutout when Matty Held booted home a goal in the third stanza for the host aggregation.

Pocono, coached by Harry Weikheiser, won the game on the educated toes of Douglas Nelson and LeRoy Cyphers, who each scored two goals.

The victory enabled Pocono to keep a firm hold on first place in the three-team circuit.

Two more games remain to be played on the schedule. Pocono and Barrett are slated to play at Barrett on Friday, while Polk invades Barrett a week from Friday.

Yesterday's game was originally listed for last Friday but was postponed because of Hurricane Hazel.

Young Wins Over Turner

BROOKLYN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Paddy Young, New York middleweight, won an unanimous 10-round decision over Jesse Turner of St. Louis, before a crowd of 1,435 fans at the Eastern Parkway Arena tonight.

Young weighed 165, Turner 158½. Employing a hooking attack through most of the grueling battle, Young staggered his rival with a left hook in the fourth round, and had him in trouble again in the sixth.

Turner connected with a left hook to Paddy's jaw in the second round that sent him staggering halfway across the ring.

But Young recovered quickly and engaged in a hot toe to toe exchange at the bell.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figure give you.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—An off day for matters pertaining to money, stocks and large investments, but not for other essentials. Take extreme care in legal matters and securities, however.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Not everyone has such favorable aspects as you have now. Be mindful of promises, particularly of recent date. Don't pass up any good prospects. Look sharply for openings; some are hidden.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Day much like Aries. Use extra vigilance in occupational, confidential and other important matters, all secretive work. Be content with reasonable attainment; do not be overambitious.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer)—Control emotions to a sensible degree so that you won't be misled or use faulty judgment. You'll accomplish more through calm, thoughtful action. But don't dally.

July 22 to August 21 (Leo)—You and Cancer have much in common; both should watch a tendency now to run wild with ideas and activities that may not be best for the general good. Better save after 2 p. m.

August 22 to September 21 (Virgo)—Uncertainties always exist. Go carefully and slowly; count ten before you act. Beneficial influences for personal, domestic, family affairs. Make things philosophically, don't worry.

September 22 to October 21 (Libra)—Especially favored are practical matters, industry, trade, conferences that benefit humanity. Children's interests are high. Put together with associates, friends, family.

Steels, Motors Pace Market To Modest Upturn

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP) — Steels, motors and some oils provided the impetus for a small advance in the stock market today. Railroads, however, failed to follow the market leaders and volume declined to 1,790,000 shares from 2,250,000 shares Friday.

Trading began at a brisk pace with a number of large blocks crossing the ticker tape at higher prices. Carriers attracted considerable support at the start. But the pace soon slowed and most early gains were trimmed.

Slow and selective trading continued into the afternoon. But in the final hours, reports of ined steel and auto production prompted demand for these securities. Joining the rise were most oils, aircrafts, radio-television and copper mining issues. However, farm implement, rubber, chemical, utility, airline and motion picture stocks closed irregularly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 30 cents at $134.90.

Lancaster Cattle

LANCASTER, Oct. 18 (AP) — Cattle 3,572, shortfeds, grassers, high choice and prime all sold at steady prices. Calfers 675, market, unchanged. Hogs 872, choice handweights 20.00, select 21.00, bulk of late sales, 19.50. Sows scarce at 11.50 to 12.00. Sheep 310, market steady with last week.

Want a bigger car for your money?

See the new Packard CLIPPER

The CLIPPER is a BIG car—with a smaller-car price tag!

BIG-CAR STYLING . . . big-car engineering . . . big-car prestige—you get them all in the Packard CLIPPER! But you get something more, too. You get the CLIPPER price—a price that's actually no more than many models of smaller cars!

And remember this . . . when we say the CLIPPER is a big car, we mean BIG. The CLIPPER is a Packard product inside and out . . . not just a big brother of a smaller car. Luxurious interiors, extra-wide doors, roomy seats, and trend-setting design are just a few of the recognizable features that identify the beautiful CLIPPER, wherever she goes, as a truly BIG car.

Now take another look at the price. You'll agree with many automotive men who are saying that the CLIPPER is "a lot of car for the money!"

CLIPPERS are actually priced as low as
